SPADEWORK

The spadework on international money problems which delegates of 44 nations are tackling at Bretton Woods, N. H., will make little sensational news. But in the long pull it probably will have vastly more to do with whatever international security is attainable in our times than all the high-flown oratory and noble purposes expressed for the same purpose.

Ultimately, if nations are to live together amicably, they must learn to work and plan together. They must find those "areas of agreement" of which Gov. Dewey spoke at Chicago—a phrase which expresses the ultimate secret of all cooperation. When they have discovered how it is possible to discuss tangible problems and arrive at solutions, then they will be able to discover how it is possible, also, to find common grounds for the other problems of pride and ambition and fear and oppression which have bred war.

Peace is not a thing to be had by passage of resolutions, or imposition of plans and blueprints. It is a feeling in the hearts of men which makes them forego violence in favor of further quest of the terms of understanding. It is a condition in which men who are tempted to resort to aggression forego aggression because they recognize it as opposed to their ultimate interest.

The Bretton Woods conference may blow up in a fury of disagreement, or it may drudge through to a conclusion of futility. But it also may reach reasonable and workable methods for eliminating the friction of badly managed international finance, one of the aggravations which hastened the war. In any event, it has brought governments one step closer to the day when they will talk out what they used to fight out.

COMPARISONS

There is bound to develop in the unfolding of the Allied summer offensive in Europe a comparison between the eastern and western fronts. Its terms have been evident the last few days in the news from Russian action around Minsk and American and British action in Normandy.

The Russians, fighting on a huge front, are in a war of movement. They advance, as formerly they retreated—when the Germans held the initiative—in virtually unlimited space. Since it is possible for them to bring tremendous pressure to bear on critical points, they score correspondingly great successes. Their triumphs are almost invariably large-scale.

But a point in their favor is the fact the Germans have been retreating before them. A pursuing army's destructive power is doubled and redoubled under these circumstances, as the Russians, themselves, have best case to know. In Normandy, the Germans are not retreating. Quite the contrary, they are still mobilizing for the great battle further inland which will decide whether the invasion can be thrust forward into Germany, or whether it is to be turned back.

Everything about the terrain and circumstances of the western front is different. It is no disparagement of the skill and courage of the Russians to believe that when the Germans on the western front begin to retreat, the pursuit will be just as sensational, just as overwhelming, as that which has disheartened them in the east.

CAMPAIGN TRAINS

Some tears will be shed if the campaign trains disappear as part of the overture to election day in 1944, but not many. In all probability, the idea had outlived its usefulness. Campaign planes will be next.

In the post-war future, if presidential candidates feel they must pluck the grass roots, the chances are they will do it by air. They will have the alternative of covering vast territory in the same time, or of covering the same territory in less time.

There can be again the same jostling, noisy expectancy that once kept eager thousands on tiptoe at railroad stations, except that the locale will be the airport. There can be again the moment of realization when the great man appears in the doorway and looks better—and, of course, fresher—than the wilted onlookers dared to expect. There can be again the few words, bringing in some mention of the locale, the preparations for departure, the fateful moment when the wheels roll and perhaps even the local dignitaries riding along to the next stop.

To be sure, it won't have the authentic flavor of the old-time campaign train with its brass hardware and bunting, its pulled curtains, its unidentifiable faces peering out the windows and its air of portent and mystery—but anyone who has thrilled to an air liner dropping out of the sky will have to agree it won't be a bad substitute.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, July 7

THROUGH some curious trick of fate, or through the intervention of an erratic, singular or intriguing association, either of public or strictly private importance, there may be promise of the sudden and surprising breaking away of a static state of affairs, and stubborn obstacles or impediments. Strategy, peculiar insight or psychic lead may prove the opening to a difficult and long-continued bafflement or frustration. Proceed with shrewdness, diligence, devotion and amiability and rich rewards may crown the efforts bringing surprise and long lasting benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may have the power to turn the tide of baffling, tenacious and stagnant or crystallized conditions by the timely use of intuition, psychic insight, strange contacts or a set of curious and bewildering circumstances. Tackling such limitations or static situations by determination, perseverance, steadfast endeavor and sound logic, in support of hunches may create real and lasting benefits, with probably public or community recognition or rewards of merit. Personal pleasure may also materialize.

A child born on this day may possess curious talents, with strange characteristics, unique creative skills, turning defeat and frustration into highly productive channels, with public acclaim.

Post-War Airpaths

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Civil Aeronautics board has made two announcements recently, the results of which may sooner than anticipated determine the pattern for our participation in post-war world aviation.

The first was an outline, subject to revision, of course, of what the international air routes of tomorrow will be. The second was the announcement that in July, CAB will start hearings on the more than 100 applications for international air routes now on file.

In outlining the world plan CAB told of the nation's interest in international airlines and landing fields.

The proposed routes cover 140,000 airline miles, touching more than 50 countries. Of these, 60,000 miles are over new routes. It would be impossible to describe these world airways here, but certain points are significant. If CAB's routes are followed, the jumping off cities for world travel will be New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Miami, New Orleans, Brownsville, Charleston, Chicago and the Twin Cities, with one other point in the southeastern United States.

Alaska would become a great crossroads between Chicago and Seattle here, and Tokyo, Vladivostok, Shanghai and Hong Kong. Out of New York, Newfoundland would be the point of departure for London, Berlin, Rome and Cairo; as well as for Stockholm, Leningrad, Moscow and Teheran. The southern cities would be the feeders for Mexico and South America, as well as for the southern route to the Mediterranean.

State department officials say clearing the routes will entail an enormous amount of work, but by no means is it an insurmountable task. Many of the lanes cross countries where we already have agreements. Since our policy is to establish these lines purely on a competitive basis, and in nearly every instance to swap reciprocal landing rights in this country, few nations who have any hopes of building future international airlines of their own would hesitate to participate.

The first hearings on foreign service franchises will be on those which operate through the Caribbean to South America and Africa. Both continents now are ready for commercial aviation as soon as planes are available and wartime restrictions on commercial aviation can be relaxed.

It is not a dreamer's world to say that we must have law and order, for that is the elementary foundation on which the American civilization is based. The demands for law and order, for peace and security are as vital to our nation in a world of nations as they are to our citizens in their domestic affairs.—Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Those who go through life attempting to avoid their share in its preservation are bound to lose the very semblance of life itself.—Undersecretary of War Patterson.

Infantile Paralysis, Summertime Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
POLIOMYELITIS, or infantile paralysis, is one of the few infectious diseases that occurs predominantly in the summertime. It usually starts its upward swing in June and reaches its peak incidence in September.

Every year since 1907 there has been a more or less wide spread epidemic in the United States and last year there were 12,404 cases reported, so we may expect another epidemic this year and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is preparing its defenses. Including placating respirators, at strategic geographic positions, arranging for increased hospital facilities, surveying transportation facilities, such as ambulances, and providing wool for the Kenny hot pack treatment.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The Foundation which went all out for the Kenny treatment because of the dramatic popular appeal Sister Kenny made and refused further support to many hospitals (such as the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, St. Louis, Mo., where various hopeful orthopedic measures were being tried) has trained many hundred technicians and doctors in the Kenny method and there are thousands of others familiar with it over the country.

But a word of calm optimism should be faced to every parent who may be faced with the fears of an epidemic this summer and who do not live near a station where Kenny treatment is available. They become imbued with the idea that if Kenny treatment cannot be had for their child paralysis of grave extent is bound to occur.

Majority Recover
The fact is that most children who get poliomyelitis fever recover without any paralysis at all. Study of the Chicago epidemic of 1943, which has just been announced in "The Journal of the American Medical Association," shows that without Kenny treatment 73 per cent of the patients recovered without paralysis or weakness of any kind, and a further 9 per cent have only a slight functional weakness which does not interfere with a normal life. There were 10 per cent of the patients who were left with severe enough rest, as nearly a normal diet as possible with extra pushing of fluids in the more serious cases. Most of the patients received convalescent or adult blood serum.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. E.:—What causes the skin to crack on the tips of the fingers, and the nails to split and crack?
Answer: It may be ringworm infection, contact dermatitis or, in some instances, the skin disease known as psoriasis.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHAPTER TWELVE

"You lied to me!" rasped Carter. He materialized; no hat, and his chestnut hair angry. "Don't hide in a bush, Pat!"

"I'm not hiding," declared Pat. "and it isn't a bush, it's a tree." She came out of the darkness, too; and they faced each other.

"You told me over the phone that you had a headache!"

"Yes."

"You said you were going to bed."

"I am."

"Don't quibble!"

"Why not? You raise such unimportant points, Attorney Bradford."

Carter's voice cracked. "You lied to get rid of me. You didn't want me around. You had a date with this scribbler! Don't deny it!"

"I do deny it. I didn't have a date with Ellery."

"That," remarked Mr. Queen from his observation post, "happens to be the truth."

"Don't you but in, Smith!" shouted Carter. "I'm trying to keep my temper!"

Mr. "Smith" grinned and held his peace.

"You don't have to be a sneak, Pat! If you don't want me, say so," blazed Carter.

"This has nothing to do with my wanting you or not wanting you," said Pat.

"Well, do you or don't you?"

Pat's eyes fell. "You've no right to ask me that—here—now."

"All right! Have it your way!"

"Cart—"

His voice came back in a bellow of defiance. "I'm through!"

Pat ran off toward the big white house. Thought Mr. Queen as he watched her slim figure race across the lawn: In a way it's better.... much better. You don't know what you're in for. And—

Prosecutor Carter Bradford may very well be an enemy, later on

When Ellery returned from his pre-breakfast walk the next morning, he found Nora and her mother whispering on the Wright porch.

"Good morning!" he greeted cheerfully. "Enjoy the lecture last night?"

"It was interesting," Nora looked distressed, and Hermione preoccupied, so Ellery began to go into the house.

"Mr. Smith," said Hermy. "Oh, dear, I don't know how to say it! Nora dear—"

"What happened here last night?" asked Nora.

"Happened?" Ellery looked blank. "I mean with Pat and Carter. You were home—"

"Is anything wrong?" asked Ellery quickly.

"Of course there is. Pat won't come down to breakfast. She won't answer any questions. And when Pat sulks—"

"It's Carter's fault," Hermy burst out. "I thought there was something queer about her headache last night! Please, Mr. Smith, if you know anything about it—if something happened after we went to Town Hall last night which her mother ought to know—"

"Has Pat broken off with Cart?"

asked Nora anxiously. "No, you don't have to answer. Mother, you'll simply have to give Patty a talking-to. She can't keep doing this sort of thing to Cart."

Ellery walked Nora back to the little house. As soon as they were out of earshot of Mrs. Wright, Nora said: "Of course you had something to do with it."

"I?" parried Mr. Queen.

"Well.... don't you agree Pat's in love with Carter? I'm sure you could help by not making him jealous—"

"Mr. Bradford," said Mr. Queen, "would be jealous of—"

"I know. He's so hotheaded, too! Oh, dear," Nora sighed. "I'm making a mess of it. Will you forgive me? And come in to breakfast?"

"Yes to both questions." And as he helped Nora up the porch steps, he wondered just how guilty he really was.

Jim was full of political talk, and Nora.... she was wonderful. No other word for it, thought Ellery. Watching and listening, he could detect no least tinkle of falsity. It was a temptation to dismiss the letter incident of the previous evening as fantasy.

Pat arrived, with Alberta and eggs, in a rush.

"Nora! How nice," she said, as if nothing at all had happened. "Morning, Jim! Ellery! I just felt the impulse to look in on the lovebirds...."

Jim stared. "Lo, Patso?" He grinned. "Say, you are grown-up! Let me look. Yep. A real glamour girl! Smith, I envy you. If I were a bachelor—"

Ellery saw the swift cloud darken Nora's face. She pressed more coffee on her husband.

Pat kept chattering. She wasn't a very good actress—couldn't look Jim in the eye. But Nora was superb. Yes, Pat had been right. Nora had decided not to think about the letters or their horrible implication. And she was using the minor crisis of Pat and Cart to help her not to think.

Nora left the dining room to join Alberta in the kitchen.

"That Nora," chuckled Jim. "She's—Say! What time is it? I'll be late at the bank. Nora!" he shouted. "Didn't the mail come yet?"

"Not yet!" Nora called from the kitchen as Jim observed, "Ah! There's Bailey now. Scuse!"

Jim hurried out to the foyer to answer the postman's ring. They heard him open the front door and his slow returning steps while he was shuffling through the mail.

Then they saw him staring at one of the several envelopes the postman had just delivered. His face was livid. Suddenly he vaulted upstairs. They heard his feet pound on the carpeting, a moment later a door bang.

Pat gaped at the spot Jim had just vacated.

Ellery got up and walked without noise to the foot of the stairs—case. After a moment he returned to the breakfast table.

"He's in his study, I think. Heard him lock the door.... Here's Nora."

"Where's Jim?" asked Nora as she set the eggs down.

"Upstairs," answered Ellery.

"Jim?" she called.

"Yes, Nora." Jim reappeared on the stairs, pale but rigidly controlled. He had his coat on, and carried several unopened letters of assorted sizes.

"Jim! Is anything wrong?"

"Wrong?" he laughed. "I never saw such a suspicious woman! What should be wrong?"

"I don't know. But you look so pale—"

Jim kissed her. "You ought to've been a nurse! Well, got to be going. Oh, by the way, here's the mail. The usual junk. Bye, Patty! Smith! See you soon." Jim raced out.

After breakfast, Ellery said something about strolling in the woods behind the house and excused himself.

A half hour later Pat joined him. She came hurrying through the underbrush, looking back over her shoulder as if someone were chasing her.

"I thought I'd never get away from Nora," Pat panted. She dropped to a stump. "Whoo!"

Ellery blew smoke thoughtfully. "Pat, we've got to read that letter Jim just received. It stirred him tremendously. Somehow this morning's letter ties in with the rest of this puzzle. Can you lure Nora out of the house?"

"She's going to High Village this morning to do some shopping. There's the station wagon!"

Pat kicked a twig. Then she sprang off the stump. "I feel awful spying on her," she moaned. "But what else can we do?"

"I doubt if we'll find anything," said Ellery as Pat let him into Nora's house with her duplicate key.

"Jim locked the door when he ran upstairs. He didn't want to be caught doing.... whatever it was he did."

In Jim's study, Pat set her back against the door. She looked ill. The author-detective sniffed. And went directly to the fireplace. It was clean except for a small mound of ash.

"He burned it!" said Pat.

"But not thoroughly enough."

"Ellery, you've found something!"

"A scrap that wasn't consumed by the fire."

Pat flew across the room. Ellery was examining a scrap of charred paper carefully.

"Part of the envelope?"

"The flap. Return address. But the address has been burned off. Only thing left is the sender's name."

Pat read: "Rosemary Haight."

Her eyes widened. "Jim's sister Rosemary! The one he wrote those three letters to about Nora!"

"It's possible that—" Ellery did not finish.

"You were going to say it's possible there was a first letter we didn't find, because he'd already sent it! And that this is the remains of his sister's answer."

"Yes," Ellery tucked the burnt scrap away in his wallet. "But on second thought I'm not so sure. Why should his sister's reply bother him so much, if that's what it is? No, Patty, this is something different, something new."

"But what?"

"That," said Mr. Queen, "is what we've got to find out. He took her arm, looking about. 'Let's get out of here.'"

Presbyterian Women Enjoy Meeting, Talk

An interesting talk on "Home" by Mrs. D. R. McConnell featured the quarterly meeting of the Presbyterian Women's association following a luncheon at the church yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. McConnell's inspirational theme stressed the importance of the home in wartime. She introduced her subject through a conversation between several American soldiers on the front who were discussing the homes they had left.

The speaker emphasized the need and value of the kind of home where pleasures and responsibilities are shared by every member of the family, where young people receive the training and ideals which will guide them through life. Mrs. McConnell pointed out that even with wartime demands on time, labor and leisure, the maintenance of the home is a necessity and mothers and housewives must choose carefully between or wisely combine their duties in the home and war plants.

She declared that "the home will be the factor which decides whether we will have world peace because it is there we are given our ideals and hopes for the future."

The program, which followed the luncheon arranged by the July committee headed by Mrs. James Armstrong and Mrs. R. H. Woods, also included a sketch, "The Knitting Society," directed by Mrs. Robert Dunn. The cast included Mrs. Dunn, Miss Caroline Hole, Mrs. Evas Lipp, Mrs. O. C. Juergens, Mrs. C. B. Currier and Barry Bass.

Musical entertainment included a vocal duet, "I Need His Care," Mrs. Robert Talbot and Mrs. V. R. McBane, accompanied by Miss Anna Cook; a piano duet, "Garden of Roses" (Ritter) Loujean McDevitt and Gertrude Wilms.

PINAFORE, SUSPENDER FROCKS FAVORED BY YOUTH

Left, pinafore over striped chambray; center, cotton blouse, flannel skirt; right, polka dot cotton pinafore. This year the 'teen-age crowd is reaping the greatest benefits from the thrifty hobby of sewing. They are also keenly conscious of current style favorites. Generally speaking, the juveniles like pinafores, the suspender frocks come next. The pinafore, right, is made of scalloped-border polka dot cotton, with deep heart-shaped neckline and full gathered skirt. The scalloped border is repeated in the patch pockets. Cotton eyelet embroidered ruffles match the cotton blouse beneath. The other pinafore, left above, is the crisp and starched variety worn over a striped chambray dress. The pinafore's narrow ruffle is trimmed with three rows of rick-rack, and the full gathered skirt repeats the same trim. In the center of our illustration is a suspender frock consisting of a cotton blouse and featherweight flannel skirt with clip-on embroidered suspenders. The blouse drawing neckline and sleeves give femininity and softness for a contrast to the tailored skirt.

Mosquito Reservoir Proves Its Worth To Mahoning Mills

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, July 6.—Mosquito lake, built as a 90-day wonder by the Army Corps of Engineers last fall, is saving Youngstown steel mills from serious tonnage losses during an extremely dry period. E. J. Tripp, associate engineer for the U. S. Geological survey, said today.

Mosquito was constructed to impound a more plentiful supply of water for Youngstown district mills during dry periods and to protect the valley against floods.

Water impounded since the gates were closed last December is being released now to provide enough water for mills. Mosquito, Milton and Berlin reservoirs are providing 250,000,000 gallons of water daily for industrial use.

Despite additional storage capacity with construction of Mosquito lake, the valley's water resources so far this year is only 1,000,000,000 gallons more than a year ago.

This time last year Berlin reservoir was overflowing with more than 27,000,000 gallons while Milton was nearly full with almost 10,000,000 gallons.

At present Berlin has only about 17,000,000 gallons while Milton has 8,000,000,000. The 13,000,000,000.

Boy Commandos In Washington Wearing Nerves of Army Mps

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 6.—The United States Army can claim a brilliant defensive victory over Washington small boys if it can just hold out through Saturday. The battlefield is the Washington monument grounds; the small boys, objective the captured German and Jap warplanes and flight equipment on display at a "Shot-from-the-Sky" War bond show. The exhibit is slated to fold up this weekend, and so far some of the harassed MPs and WACS in charge of it if the urchins' urge for souvenirs continues unchanged. "Now what do you suppose a boy would want with a 5-foot chunk of Messerschmitt wing?" mused a weary MP sergeant. He waved his billy absently at a 10-year-old who had seized the trigger button of a battered ME-109 and begun a jerky "ahh-ahh-ahh-ahh" imitation of machine-gun fire. "See that there 20-millimeter cannon?" the sergeant continued. "Well, the other night—get off that wing, you with the jersey!—I found two junior dogfaces inside the fence here sweating that gun up in the air and two more outside waiting to carry it away. Then another pair came down here outfitted like a detail of G.I. mechanics with pliers and screwdrivers, and they darn near had one wing off that JU-88 before I charged 'em." It was a great relief to the conscientious sergeant when Gen. Marshall or somebody decided it would be better to lock up captured officers' pistols and similarly attractive portable hardware in boy-proof strong-boxes. Despite their trials, the custodians are proud that visitors to the exhibit already have bought more than $3,400,000 worth of War bonds. That's $1,500,000 more than the original quota.

YANKS SEIZE

The German high command was reported throwing tanks and infantry lavishly into the battle, and hand-to-hand fighting was going on for the airfields south of newly-captured Carpiquet. The mile-long Carpiquet airfield is a No-Man's land and an officer observer reported to Supreme headquarters three sets of two huge hangars had been destroyed. "German tanks can be seen moving among the remains of the hangars and shells whistle from both sides of the airfield," he said, adding: "Dead Germans lie around the tracks of the Bayeux-Carpiquet railroad and dead cattle lie in the adjoining fields." The airfield, built in 1938, is one of the best in Normandy and has been used extensively by the Germans. Density of the German troops facing the Americans is roughly half that of the Germans around Caen, but more difficult terrain in the Cherbourg peninsula offsets this advantage for the doughboys. It was agreed here that a deluge of high explosives from the air and a mighty artillery barrage are needed to crack a hole in the German lines around Caen. Today's clearing weather gave promise of the most intense air activity for three weeks.

Green Islands Are Now South Pacific Paradise

NISSAN, South Pacific.—The Green islands, after four months of Allied occupation, have become a south Pacific paradise despite the Japanese on islands encircling the group. Day and night, combat and transport planes take off from the air strips dominating the center of Nissan, largest of the seven islands in the group. The weather is moderate. Picturesque natives clad in red, green and blue skirt-like coverings add color to the scene. Flight nurses make brief daily stops. Miles of jungle were leveled for airstrips and camps. But there's enough jungle left to provide a south seas backdrop.

Mediterranean Casualties Heaviest Before Invasion

A total of 173,572 army casualties had occurred in all theaters from Pearl Harbor through May 31, a summary of casualties by theaters reported.

LIBERATED CHERBOURG SHOWS STAINS OF STRUGGLE

THE HORROR OF WAR is truly dramatized in these photos taken on the Cherbourg peninsula shortly after the Allied victory in that area. Picture above shows dead Germans in a Cherbourg street as Americans enter to take possession of the liberated town. In lower photo, wrecked Nazi guns, dead horses and other equipment lie alongside the road after being pushed there by American bulldozers which cleared the road for the advance of Allied troops. CONVICTED OFFICER IS FOUND HANGED

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Lieut. Beauford Swancutt, under sentence of death by an army court martial, killed himself today in the Army's Letterman hospital. Military sources said he hanged himself with a bed sheet. Swancutt was convicted by a court martial at Camp Anza of slaying two young women, his commanding officer and a policeman. He was wounded before his capture, and after the court martial was hospitalized. Lt. Swancutt, 31, was convicted by a 12-year-old general court-martial May 26 of the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Dorothy Douglas, and her friend, Miss Louridine Livermore, each 19, and from Long Beach, Calif., his commanding officer, Capt. Aubrey G. Serfling, Preston, Miss., and a riverside policeman, Arthur Simpson. All were killed during a mad outburst of gunplay by the La Crosse, Wis., officer last March 5 in the Camp Anza officers' club and later elsewhere on the post and in River-side. Swancutt testified he suffered a mental blackout the afternoon before the shootings and did not recover from it for several days. Defense witnesses testified he was insane at the time and his widowed mother, Mrs. Caroline Swancutt of Detroit; his sister, Mrs. Beatrice Wright, also of Detroit, and his wife, Gertrude, testified he was abnormal in many respects. However, after hearing prosecution witnesses testify that he was not psychotic or mentally diseased, the court found him sane.

posers of peace and war." About 50,000 tons of Allied bombs have been dropped "so far" on flying bomb and rocket targets in France and Germany, Churchill said. "Quite a considerable proportion of our flying power has been diverted from other forms of offensive activity," the prime minister continued. "The Germans have sacrificed a good deal of manufacturing strength which could have increased their fighter and bomber forces. It is yet to be decided whose effort will suffer most in the process." 100 to 150 Bombs Daily Churchill said he could give "no guarantee" about the future of this form of Germany's attack. He recalled that when he visited the scene of flying bomb damage last Saturday the only question asked of him was "what are you going to do about it?" Churchill said he replied, "everything in human power, and we have never failed yet." With ringing tones the prime minister recalled his bulldog defiance when London was getting its heaviest doses of bombs dropped by planes more than three years ago during the blitz. He concluded with this proud boast: "London will never be conquered and will never fall in her renown. Triumphing over every ordeal, her light will long shine among men." Between 100 and 150 flying bombs have been sent over daily, Churchill reported, but he added that "a very large proportion" failed to cross the channel or were shot down or destroyed by "various methods"—which he did not describe. The prime minister said the British intelligence got its first information early in 1943 that the Germans were developing a long range weapon for the bombardment of London and that counter measures were studied immediately. The bomber command sent its full strength against rocket bomb installations in Germany last August, Churchill said. "Very great damage was done the enemy," he continued, "and a number of key German scientists including the head scientist who all were dwelling together in a so-called strength-through-joy establishment were killed."

Tax Experts Find Cheer For Newlyweds, Parents

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 6.—Congressional tax experts had a word of cheer today for fall newlyweds and for households anticipating a blessed event in the latter part of the year. Digging through the technical language of the Income Tax Simplification bill, which became law May 29, they found: 1. A man can take unto himself a wife at any time during a year, even on Dec. 31, and take a full $500 exemption for her in his tax computation. 2. Likewise, a baby born at any time during the taxable year gives its parents a full year's exemption of $500.

FRENCH, GERMAN TARGETS BOMBED

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 6.—Around 1,000 U. S. heavy bombers attacked northwest Germany, enemy air fields in France and flying bomb grounds in the Pas-De-Calais department today while medium and light bombers assaulted railroad lines leading to the herbourg front. The RAF in great strength bombed the robot platforms on the channel coast and the rail center of Dijon, 160 miles southeast of Paris. More than 300 Marauder and Havoc bombers, in one of the heaviest operations since D-day, made 30 attacks on these railroad lines: St. Malo-Rennes, St. Hilaire due Harcourt-Fortgeres-Vitre, Argentan-Lemans, St. Fler-Fomfront-La Chappelle and Nogent-Lerou-trou. Many are in the gap south of the battle fields between the Seine and Loire rivers, over which most bridges have been destroyed. The assaults were high-pressure continuation of the campaign started well before the invasion to isolate the Normandy theater.

RECAPTURE 2 MEN WHO FLED HOSPITAL

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, July 6.—Two men who escaped the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane a week ago tonight were captured early today in a wooded tract four miles south of here, Dr. R. E. Bushong, hospital superintendent, reported. They offered no resistance.

They were Louis Martine, 26, of Youngstown, and Samuel Bonecut, 18, of Columbus, the same men, Dr. Bushong said, who were identified as a pair who clubbed a woman at her farm home Monday night, robbed a couple, and abducted their son for two hours.

Martine, convicted of murder, and Bonecut, sentenced for armed robbery, fled the institution with two other men after threatening a guard with a razor. The others—John Rousseau, 21, of Cincinnati, and Maceo Collins, 30, of Columbus—still are at large.

The two were caught by three members of the Lima police force who searched the woods after completing their regular tour of duty here. A woman motorist reported she had seen two suspicious men near the woods—the same locality in which the farm folk were assaulted—and the officers thrashed through the area and came upon the fugitives. The officers were Traffic Inspector Don F. Miller, Patrolman Richard Heaston and Patrolman George Roeder.

Dr. Bushong said the men had been placed in solitary confinement.

Paratroopers Aid Capture
At Noemfoor in Dutch New Guinea's Geelvink bay, where Southwest Pacific ground forces are 1,000 miles closer to the Philippines than they were a year ago, capture of Kornasoren airfield was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Paratrooper, dropped in force on two successive days, helped win it on the Fourth of July. Sunday, Sixth army troops opened the invasion of Noemfoor, investing Kamiri airfield in the first hours. Kornasoren's advantage over Kamiri is that it can be enlarged into a heavy bomber base from which the Philippines can be pounded.

At Saipan, which is 3,800 miles nearer Nimitz' China coast goal than he was at Pearl Harbor a year ago, Nimitz conceded, the fighting had been tougher than expected.

"Our troops have the situation well in hand and I think our forces will push on rapidly to the (northeastern) end of the island," Nimitz said, at a diminishing rate in casualties.

Despite Japan's carrier and other warship losses June 19 in the Philippines sea, the enemy navy merits such consideration that "we take into account the estimated capability of the Jap fleet in every move we make," Nimitz cautioned.

That observation heightened interest in naval task force thrusts into the Volcano and Bonin islands to within less than 700 miles of Tokyo.

"I believe we are approaching the peak of our efficiency in handling ships and planes," said Nimitz whose fleet units have put ashore and guarded the Saipan invaders without losing a single warship so far.

SALVAGE DEPOTS IN COUNTY DESIGNATED

Officials Renew Appeal To Housewives To Save Needed Articles

County salvage officials again today made an appeal to all housewives of the county, particularly in the rural areas, to aid in the salvage drive. The shortage of fats, paper, tin cans and anything else salvageable is acute, County Chairman E. R. Sturges declared.

He admitted that a few things had gone wrong in previous drives where in some cases someone's drives were not picked up but, he explained, that while one person was missed a lot was picked up. In trying to make it possible that no salvage will be missed the officials have hit upon the idea of establishing scrap piles at handy places over the county where people may place their savings along with their neighbors, and when the pile is big enough the collectors will pick it up.

Following is the list of scrap depots for Columbiana county:

West twp., Bayard, Campbell's store; Wild Duck school.
Butler twp., Salem, Salem Auto Wrecking Co. Depot road.
Knox twp., North Georgetown, Bradley's garage; Homeworth, Freshley's garage.

ALLIED FIRE-POWER OUTDOES GERMANS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The American and British forces are building in Europe a fire-power four times greater than that of the Germans, acting Secretary of War Patterson announced today.

Explaining that he was speaking in terms of ammunition rather than numbers of men, Patterson said this tremendous fire power includes everything—small arms fire, grenade, mortars, artillery, air-plane bombs and rockets.

This means, Patterson declared, "that for every bomb, shell or bullet thrown at us by the Germans, we will give them four."

He said the importance of this cannot be overestimated, adding "as every soldier knows, it is fire-power that wins wars. Fire-power is the killing end of the business."

The annual outing of English printers and their apprentices is called a waygoose.

area where two men perished in a fire two years ago. The area had been sealed until a few months ago.

Kerr said workers expected to complete sealing of the mine with building blocks and cement by tonight.

The mine was sealed in December, 1941, and reopened in about six weeks when the fire had burned out. Kerr said, however, the shaft would be walled off longer this time.

George Strain, state director of industrial relations, will hold a hearing at the courthouse in St. Clairsville Friday to formally establish cause of the blaze. Miners and mine officials will testify concerning conditions in the shaft, Strain said.

Bob Fetheringham, one of the rescue workers who poured tons of water and rock dust on the fire in a vain effort to smother the flames, reported another blaze yesterday at the Wolf Run mine near Steubenville.

Fetheringham, outside supervisor at the Wolf Run shaft, said the blaze there occurred when a car ran off a track and knocked down a trolley. This fire was brought under control quickly, he added.

taken this invasion—and some of them almost did. Now, however, we are past the likelihood of disaster, and once we have broken through Rommel's guard on the road to Paris, Hitler can whistle for his lucky wind.

Does he intend to fight to the death? I think not. Or let us say that if he personally intends to resist to the bitter end, there's small chance that his followers will back him to such a limit.

The consensus of close observers seems to be that Germany will surrender short of fighting on the home soil. The general view also is that she will try to submit herself to the mercies of the western Allies rather than to the Russians against whom she perpetrated some of the most horrible atrocities of history.

Col. Elliott Roosevelt, WAC Captain Will Wed

LONDON, July 6.—Col. Elliott Roosevelt and Capt. Ruth Briggs of the Women's Army Corps were busy at their military duties today at widely-separated bases in Britain and no comment was immediately forthcoming concerning their engagement as reported in dispatches from the United States.

Although the President's son cheerfully accepted personal congratulations, he declared "I have nothing to say."

Capt. Briggs, who is an assistant to a general, was reported too busy with invasion work to discuss the romance.

INSULATED— BUT HOW?

Remember—there is no magic in the word "Insulation"

Before you insulate your home, be sure of an adequate insulation job by asking yourself these 6 questions:

1.—How Thick is the Insulation?

Thin insulation is only partially effective . . . insist on a Full Thick Johns-Manville "Blown" Rock Wool job. All Home Insulation Co.'s Blown Rock Wool jobs conform to the U. S. Government standards for optimum operating efficiency of mineral wool.

2.—How Efficient Is It?

J-M Blown Rock Wool has a heat resistance per inch of thickness equal to or better than any home insulating material on the market.

3.—Is It Fireproof and Permanent?

J. M. "Blown" Rock Wool is a pure mineral wool made from rock . . . won't burn, rot or decay. Demand a fireproof insulation; don't be misled by claims of "fire-resistant", etc.

4.—Can the Complete Home Be Satisfactorily Insulated?

Hundreds of home owners in the Salem area alone can testify to the complete and satisfactory insulation of their SIDE WALLS, as well as ceiling areas. The George Washington Shrine at Mount Vernon was insulated with mixed wool on the recommendation of the U. S. Government National Bureau of Standards.

5.—What Type of Insulation is Preferable?

The United States Government Department of the Interior states, "Generally, mineral materials are preferable because of their resistance to fire, electrical short circuits, moisture, termites, vermin and decay."—U. S. Bureau of Mines, Circular 7166.)

6.—How Reliable Is the Company Behind the Product?

Johns-Manville pioneered the blown rock wool industry, and for 25 years has been the insulation industry's leader. The Home Insulation Co. of Youngstown, has an exclusive contract with Johns-Manville for installation of their Type A "Blown" Rock Wool in this area.

Teen-Age Marriages Spurt In War-Time

NEW YORK.—The war has greatly increased the number of marriages of boys under 20 and among both men and women over 35, according to the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The proportion of older brides for teen-age boys rose, to 1942, by 31.6 per cent, but among boys marrying at 16 and 17, more than half wed older women. This tendency dropped with each added year, and among the 19-year-olds only one-quarter married older partners.

The increase in women marrying over 35 was 73 per cent. Among men over 35 the increase was about 65 per cent.

Salem Drops Fifth Game In Nine To Ravenna Arsenal, 3-2

EARLY INNINGS EARN VICTORY

Salem Unable to Overcome Runs Made In First Two Innings

Unable to overcome a three-run lead piled up in the first two innings, the Salem Athletics dropped their fifth game in nine to the Ravenna Arsenal squad, 3-2 yesterday in a contest played on the Apco diamond.

Although the locals outthrew the Powder men 9 to 7, they failed to advance their runners after they were on base and left eight possible scores on the bases as compared to three by the victors.

Two big runs in the first inning and another in the second gave the Arsenal all the runs they needed. However, the Salem outfit made a serious bid for the game in the fourth inning when two runs were marked up. The extra marker was too difficult to secure and the Athletics fell short of their fifth victory by a hair.

At Columbiana Sunday

The loss puts the locals on the short side of the win and loss column for the first time this season. Now they have chalked up four wins and have five losses against them.

An opportunity for a comeback will be afforded Salem Sunday when they make another trip to Firestone park in Columbiana to meet the local team there. Next Wednesday the Ravenna team will return Salem's visit and will appear at Centennial park at 6:30 p. m.

A new foe—the Warren Ramblers—will vie against Salem in the first of a home-and-home arrangement at Warren Sunday, July 16. The Ramblers will appear here on July 26.

New Yorker Says Armed Forces Do Baseballers Good

Says Talk That Serving In War Will Ruin Stars Is Pure Bunk

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS — Joe Devine, veteran scout of the New York Yankees, doesn't share the pessimism of those who argue that service in the armed forces is certain to wreck the baseball careers of star players called to the colors.

"Those who have continued playing with their post teams aren't going to suffer except in the measure that increasing age will affect their ability," said Devine while in Dallas looking for Yankee prospects.

DIMAGGIO Still Going

"Take Joe DiMaggio. He played as many ball games last year as he would have played had there been no war. With Hank Greenberg, it is different. He didn't play and the long lay-off is certain to tell on him."

"But what some people don't realize is the great job the Army and Navy are doing in developing our young material for us. In our organization for example, we have a flock of boys in the service who are getting in one year of development that we couldn't have given them in less than two or three seasons."

Service Doing Good

"On the whole, military service is doing a lot of good for baseball. It's also making new fans. The game should experience a tremendous boom in the postwar period."

Regarding the troubles of a baseball sleuth in wartime, Joe sizes it up like this:

"What can a fellow do? Show an interest in boys under 17 and Commissioner Landis will be on your neck. Begin waxing enthusiastic over anyone above that age and you learn that he's bound for the Army."

"So, all you can do is catalogue the whole field, wait a couple of weeks to get a train reservation and then spend at least a day and a night trying to jar a hotel manager's memory until you get a room on the grounds that you've been a regular patron for 15 or 20 years."

Send Them Mail, Grid Coach Says After Trip

NEW YORK—Two years ago it was Jim Crowley, football coach at Fordham university. Now it is L. Comdr. James H. Crowley, 12 pounds thinner and five shades tanner, back in New York after spending 16 months in the South Pacific.

Reviewing the needs of the men down there, Comdr. Crowley says: "Mail is the most important thing. Next, the men would like more radio sport programs. However, I wouldn't say that their interest in sports is so important that sports must be maintained back here. The departure of the big names has taken away some of the interest."

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, July 6. — After watching some of the recent Red Cross tennis matches at Forest Hills—and one veteran observer claimed it was the best tennis he had seen in 10 years—in this dept. reached the conclusion that what tennis needs is a Ray Dumont.... That doesn't mean we want the referees to run the wrong way after hitting the ball; they do that often enough, anyway. But a few fresh ideas and some professional promotion would make it a better show and attract more spectators.... As a starter, how about a professional version of the Davis cup competition after the war?

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The Reds claim Ray Mueller tied George Gibson's "iron man" record by catching his 133rd consecutive game yesterday, but the 1909 Pirate receiver not only got a six-month rest in the middle of his string but he caught 122 games before he was relieved for even one inning.... Bobby McLean, the ice comedian and one-time speed skating champ, likes golf better than skating.... Phil Bloom, who fought Benny Leonard eight (six no decision, KO'd twice, and George Levine, who had two losing clashes with Pete Latzo, are in the acting business in Hollywood and currently appear in "The Hairy Ape".... When the Baltimore baseball park burned down the other night, concessionaires reported loss of $15,000 worth of refreshments. Probably the first time a ball park hot dog ever was really hot.

The first human to ascend in a balloon was J. F. Piatre de Rozier in France in 1783.

ALL-STARS SHOW UP WELL, SEEM TO BE MINUS JITTERS

Usual Pre-Game Tenseness Not Evident As Stars Lead Squads

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

All-stars have a habit of going sour when their names are called for "dream game" duty but the 1944 crop today showed signs of ignoring the pre-game jitters and carrying on business as usual.

George Munger, Stan Musial, Ray Mueller, Connie Ryan, Dixie Walker, Joe Medwick and Mel Ott of the National league cast and Paul "Dizzy" Trout and Dutch Leonard of the American stood out in yesterday's major league games.

Cards Still Going

As the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the New York Giants 4-1 in a night game, Munger upped his win record to 11-2 and Musial clubbed a double and single, pulling to within two points of Dixie Walker's league-leading average by boosting his mark to .370. The only Giant run was scored by Ott who doubled and was driven home by Medwick.

Muller tied the National league record set by George Gibson of Pittsburgh in 1909 when he caught his 133rd consecutive game for Cincinnati as the Reds dumped Brooklyn 4-1 for their ninth straight loss.

Ryan was the hitting star of Boston's 7-2 verdict over Chicago with four singles in five at bats but Jim Tobin, who failed to make the All-Stars, retired the first 16 Cubs in order and allowed only one hit in seven innings although he wound up with a seven-hitter.

Reds Take Over Second

Dick "Kewpie" Barrett of the Phils started too late to make the big game but settled for two victories in the same afternoon over Pittsburgh, hurling the last inning to complete a "suspended" game from May 21 with a 9-4 edge and then handing the Pirates' Ray Starr his first defeat 12-2 in the regular game. As a result Cincinnati took over second place.

Trout joined the 10-win club as Detroit stopped Boston 8-1, and Washington's Leonard baffled Chicago, 3-1, in a night game.

The Browns stopped Philadelphia in three innings 4-2. Joe McCarthy's revised batting order for a Yankee 6-2 edge on Cleveland.

Mueller Looms As "Iron" Catcher

Red Backstop Working His 134th Consecutive Game For Cincy Today

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, July 6.—When Ray Coleman Mueller, 22, Cincinnati's one-man catching staff, appears behind the bat tonight against the Brooklyn Dodgers, it will mark his 134th consecutive catching game, one more than the major league record set by George Gibson of the Pittsburgh Pirates 35 years ago.

LANNEY, RITCHIE PIT TALENTS AT 6

Third round operations get under way in Class A tonight when the league's two prize pitchers, Francis Lanney and Dale Ritchie tangle once again in the Sheens-China contest.

Both hurlers are rated as the loop's best, but Ritchie has the edge by virtue of his 13 straight victories against no defeats. Lanney has won eight games in 13 this season and has as many shut-outs and one-hit games to his credit as the China hurler. He also has pitched a no-hit fray.

The second game pits the newly-acquired Ken Brudery, Demings ace - in - the - hole moundsman, against Jim's squad. Demings is picked to win since Jim's hasn't chalked up a win in a full round of play while Demings has shown considerable improvements since Brudery is doing their tossing.

Bat Improved Walker's Hitting, Slugger Claims

Dixie Walker, the current major league batting king, and the "people's cherch" in Brooklyn, explains his improvement in hitting this way:

"One time last season I couldn't buy a bingle. So one day in practice I decided to change bats. I picked up a Chick Hafey model. It had a bigger handle than the one I had been using; it was an inch longer and three ounces heavier.

"I started to hit and since the new bat started me on the streak I got one like it this year. It weighs 37 ounces and it makes a lot of difference when I hit that ball!"

Gibson caught 150 games in 1909 for the pennant-winning Pirates, 133 of them in succession. The Red receiver yesterday caught his 71st game in a row this year, after having worked the last 62 in 1943.

140 Games In 1943

In his second year with the Reds, Mueller, who previously served with the Braves and Pirates, is considered one of the most proficient maskmen Cincinnati ever has had, as well as the most durable. Last year he set a record for the club by taking part in 140 games.

His current 280 batting average is the highest mark of any catcher in the National league. On defense, Ray has made only five errors in 238 chances and has been charged with just two passed balls this season. In last year's 140 games, Mueller let only five pitches get past him, for a total of seven in 211 games. Brooklyn's Mickey Owen and St. Louis' Walker Cooper, who will be Mueller's teammates on the National league all-star team this year, were charged with nine passed balls apiece last season. Owen caught 100 games and Cooper 112.

14 Twin Bills So Far

In Ray's record-tying string of 133 straight games, he caught 114 complete contests and needed relief in only 18. Once he appeared as relief catcher. During the string he has caught 30 doubleheaders, 16 last season and 14 so far this year. Since June 10 he has not missed an inning in 26 games.

Liver Ills Are Treated By Choline Vitamin

NEW YORK.—A use for choline, one of the little-known members of the B complex vitamins, in treating cirrhosis of the liver is reported in the proceedings of the American Institute of Nutrition. This vitamin was tried on nine patients by Drs. A. H. Russek and of Sinal hospital and Harold Blumberg of Johns Hopkins university.

All were also receiving the usual dietary treatments for liver cirrhosis and seven definitely improved. Three of these patients showed no improvement for two weeks in which they had the diet treatment alone. When the vitamin was added they improved within ten days. The physicians said the effect of the vitamin was probably to reduce excess fat in the livers of these patients.

The first practical balloon was invented by the Montgolfier brothers in 1783 in France.
